ECON 3329: Decisions: Theory and Experiments

Fall 2018

instructor: Uzi Segal.

location: Maloney 391B.

phone: x21567.

email: segalu@bc.edu

prerequisites: Econ2201 or Econ2203

class times: MW 3:00–4:15 office hours: Wed 2–3 or by appointment (see more below). I strongly advise you not to wait for the office hour. If you have a question, send me an email right away. Please follow these guidelines:

1. Use your BC account.
2. Have Econ 3329 in the subject line.
3. If you have a question about slides or an article, please attach them to your mail.
4. If you didn't understand my answer, please let me know ASAP. No need to reply if you understood my answer unless I explicitly ask you to do so.

2. Read the papers.
3. Solve the problem sets.
4. Take the exams.

1. Will be based on your problem sets (20%), two midterms (25% each) and a final (30%).

Midterm 1: Sept. 24 (25%), midterm 2: Nov. 5 (25%), and a final (30%). You have to take all exams. In case you couldn't take a midterm for an acceptable reason, the weight of the other exam will become 35% and the weight of the final will be 45%.

Every week I'll post the slides for the next lectures. Please print them and bring them to the lecture.

Computers and other electronic devices should not be used in class.

All problem sets, solutions, lecture notes, relevant articles etc. will be loaded to the Canvas course site. Please familiarize yourself with it and make sure that you know how to use it.

No food during lectures, please. Note: Coffee is not food...
